ENGLISH TEACHER SAILS TO HAWAII

Sailing to the Hawaiian Islands to spend a year as an exchange professor at the University of Hawaii, Stanley F. Wilson, counselor and instructor of English and speech at El Camino College, will realize one of his fondest hopes—to spend a year living in the islands.

Wilson, his wife, and the four-year-old daughter, Susan, will exchange homes, cars, and jobs for the coming year with Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Newcomer of Lanikai, Hawaii. Newcomer, who is an assistant professor of speech and at the university, will teach speech at El Camino college while completing work for the doctor of philosophy degree at the University of Southern California. He anticipates completion of work for the degree in December.

Will Coach Debating
Wilson will also assume duties as debate team coach for Newcomer, whose bachelor of arts degree was awarded by the University of Wyoming. Newcomer received his MA degree from the University of Southern California. He has taught for the past 18 years.

Wilson began negotiations for the exchange two years ago with the head of the faculty at the University of Hawaii. It was not until mid-summer that the exchange was arranged and approved by both El Camino college and the university.

The Wilsons will not be new to the islands. In 1950 they conducted a tour party of 47 school teachers to Hawaii for the National Education Association. In 1949 they, along with Donald C. Green, toured Central America and the Caribbean areas. Green is an art instructor at El Camino. In 1952 they conducted an Alaskan tour and in 1953 they traveled extensively in Europe.

'Itchy Foot'
"I've got an itchy foot, and this exchange is just what the doctor ordered," Wilson commented on his plans for the coming year.

John I. Hartley, English instructor on the El Camino campus, is currently in Holland, where he is participating in a similar exchange; and Miss Helen E. Rodgers, librarian will assume duties in Japan during the coming year while on sabbatical leave from the college.

Another El Camino art instructor, Miss Mildred K. Walker, will embark soon for a tour of art centers of Europe. She is also on sabbatical leave.

Bond Issue Program

The building program for the $10,000,000 school bond issue includes new buildings: South high school, Edison, Arlington, West Torrance, Parkway, Sepul-

HONOLULU-BOUND — Preparing for a year's teaching exchange in Hawaii are Stanley F. Wilson, English and speech instructor at El Camino college, Mrs. Wilson, and daughter Susie. The Wilsons will trade home, automobile and teaching position with the Lloyd Newcomers of Hawaii.

Car Turns Over

Jack E. Johnson, 25, of 1210 El Prado, and Barry Emenger, 15, of 1253 Elm, received minor injuries shortly after midnight Saturday when their car overturned at Carson and Madrona, according to police.
